We smile at pain while Thou art near! Though long the weary way we tread, And sorrows crown each lingering year, No path we shun, no darknes dread,

Our hearts still whispering, Thou art near When decoping pleasure turns to grief, And trembling faith is changed to fear, The murmuring wind, the quivering leaf, shall softly tell us, Thou art near ! On Thee we fling our burdening woe, O Love divine, forever dear, Content to suffer while we know, Living or dying, Thou art near ! [Atlantic Monthly.

The True Pastor.

His preaching much, but more his practice wrougt, Aliving sermon of truth he taught : For this, by rules severe his life he squared, That all might see the doctrine while they heard. For priests, he said, are patterns for the rest, (The Gold of Heaven which bears the God Imprest.) But when the precious coin is kept unclean, The sovereign image is no longer seen. If they be foul in whom the people trust, Well may the baser coins cotract the rust.

The Young Philosopher.

Mr. Solomon Winthrop was a plain old farmer-an austere, precise man, who did everything by established rules, and could see no reason why people should grasp at things beyond what had been reached by their greatgrandfathers. He had three children-two boys and a girl. There was Jeremiah, seventeen years old, Samuel fifteen, and Fanny,

It w s a cold winter's day. Samuel was in the kitchen reading a book, and so interested was he that he did not notice the entrance of his father. Jerry was in an opposite corner engaged in eighering out a sum which he had found in his arithmetic.

"Sam," said the fother to his youngest boy, " have you worked out that sum yet?" " No, sir," returned the boy, hesitatingly. "Didn't I tell you to stick to your arithmetic till you had done it?" uttered Mr. Winthrop in a severe tone, Samuel hung down his head, and looked

the father. "I can't do it, sir," tremblingly returned Samuel.

"Can't do it? and why not? Look at Jerry, there, with his slate and pencil. He had ciphered further than you have, long before he was as old as you are." "Jerry was always fond of mathematical problems, sir, but I cannot fasten my mind on them. They have no interest for me." . That's because you don't try to feel an interest in your studies. What book is that you are reading?"

" It is a work on philosophy, sir." "A work on fiddle-sticks! Go, put it away this instant, and then get your slate, and don't let me see you away from your arithmetic until you can work out those roots.

Do you understand me?" Samuel made no answer, but silently he ened, for he was unhappy. His father had been barsh towards him, and he felt that it was without a cause.

" Sam," said Jerry, as soon as their father had gone, " I will do that sum for you." No, Jerry, returned the youngest brother, with a grateful look, "that will be deceiving father. I will try to do the sum, but I fear I shall not succeed." Samuel worked very hard, but all to no purpose. His mind was not on the subject before him. The roots and squares, hypothenuses and perpendiculars, though comparatively simple in themselves, were to him a mingled mass of incomprehensible things, and the more he tried, the more he became perplexed and bothered. The truth was, his father did not understand him. Samuel was a smart boy, and uncommonly intell gent for one of his age. Mr. Winthrop was a thorough mathematician-he never yet came across a problem he could not solve, and he desired that his boys should be like him, for he considered that the acme of educational perfection lay in the power of conquering Euclid, and he often expressed his opinion that, were Euclid living then, he could "give the old geometrician a hard tus- ploy. sel." He seemed not to comprehend that different minds were made with different capacities, and what one mind grasped with case, another, with equal power, would fail to comprehend. Hence, because Jeremiah progressed rapidly in his mathematical studies, and could already survey a piece of land of many angles, he imagined that because Samuel made no progress in the same branch he was idle and careless, and treated him accordingly. He never candidly conversed with his younger son, with a view to ascertain the true beat of his mind, but he had his own standard of the power of all minds, and he pertinaciously adherrd to it.

There was another thing that Mr. Winthrop could not see, and that was, that Samuel was always pondering upon such profitable matter as was interesting to him, and that he was scarcely ever idle; nor did the father see, either, that if he ever wished his boy to become a mathemetician, he was pursuing the very course to prevent such a result. Instead of endeavoring to make the study interesting to the child, he was making

The dinner hour came, and Samuel had not worked out the sum. His father was angry, and obliged the boy to go without his dinner, at the same time telling him he was an idle, lazy child.

Poor Samuel left the kitchen, and there he sat and cried. At length his mind seemed to pass from the wrong he had suffered at the hand of his parent, and took another turn. and the marks of grief left his face. There was a large fire in the room below his chamber, so that he was not very cold, and getting up he went to a small closet, and from beneath a lot of old clothes he took forth some long strips of wood and commenced whitling. It was not for mere pastime that he whittled, for he was fashioning some curious affair from those pieces of wood. He had bits of wire, little scraps o: tin plate, pieces of twine, and dozens of small wheels that he made himself, and he seemed to be working to get them together after some peculiar fashion of his own.

Half the afternoon had thus passed away, when his sister entered his chamber. She had her apron gathered up in her hand, and after closing the door softly behind her, she

Diarrhon, Operatory, Croup, Rheumatism, and such crup tive diseases as Scariet Fever, Minsles and Erysipelas—the advantage of giving the proper remedies promptly is on.

This invaluable medicine is unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. It moderates all excess and removes all obstructions, and a speedy cure may be relied on. the advantage of giving the proper remedies promptly is obvious, and in all such cases the specifics act like a charm. The entire disease is often arrested at once, and in all cases the violence of the attack is moderated, the disease shortened and rendered less dangerous. Even Stamp of Great Britain, to prevent counterfeits. should a physician afterward have to be called, he will take the case at decided auvantage from the previous ence, and which so often lay the foundation of direased rence, and which so often by the foundation of direased imags, bronchitis, and consumption, may all be at once cured by the Faver and Cough Pills.

In all Canasto Direases such as Dyspersia, Constipution, Weak Siomach, Liver Complaint, Piles, Female Delibity and Irregularities, old Beadache, Sore or Weak Eyes, Catarrh, Sait Rheum, and and all other old eruptions, the case has specifics whose proper application will be specified as the such as the case has specifics. Often the cure of the Control of the United States and Canada, 10B MOSES, (Late I. C. Baidwin & Co.,) Rochester, N. Y. afford a cure in a most every instance. Often the cure of afford a cure in a must every instance. Often the cure of a single chronic difficulty, such a Dyeycpsia, Piles, of Catarth, He dache or Female Weakness, has more than by return mail.

have suffered for years with the "Billious Condition" having purchased a case of these Specifics have obt ined a perfect cure and immunity from their eid complaint.

COUGHS, COLDS and SORE THROATS, which so frequently lead to BRONCHITIS and CONSUMPTION, are all in their early stages promptly cured by the COUGH PILLS. Many cases of long standing Branchitis and irritating Coughs have been perfectly cared by this Specific. But more! many persons have a peculiar liability to colds, and take them from the least exposure. This will be entirely telleved by the use of the COUGH PILLS as scores can testify from experience.

So CATARRH is one of our most common and most troublesoine discuss against which the Old School Medicines and even Homespathic purscriptions are of very lit the use. Vet hundreds of persons have been cared of not only iccent and tresh but even long similing and obstinate cases of CATARRH by the use of this Specific.

One aged indy to Spaciuse was thus perfectly cared of a Cattarh which had annoyed her all her life. And a Young lady at one of our first ciaes boarding schools, who was so afflicted with this cisease as to require more than forty hankerthi-is a week was chitrey cured in a single week by this specific.

PH.ES, bleeding and blind, is one of those common and obstinate forms of disease which are so difficult to come by the ordinary methods, but which finds an entire and fundamental care in the Catarrh Specific. True, time is required, but the Specific is pleasent to take, requires wither died not restraint, and being followed up, a perfect cure is the result. Hundred- of persons, in purchasing and obstinate form of alsease, which has been worth to them ten times the cost of the entire set. Cases of over twenty years' standing have been cared with this simple specific, and we believe all may be cared by perseveran ce.

The case contains the best FEVSR and AGUESPECI. Fit known.
